LAW REPORT.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Alexander Beckman and others vs. The Steamboat Minerva. A jury trial before Judge Spencer to recover damages for the sinking of a flat-boat at Lawrenceburg in April of last year. It is alleged that the wreck of the boat was caused by the reckless discharge of freight on a wharf-boat.

A. Brower for plaintiff; Lincoln and Smith for defense.

Doollittle vs. Stoddard and others. This case was argued before Judge Spencer on the defendant's demurrer, by Judge Caldwell and T.
Powell for plaintiff, and by King and Thompson on the other side.

Judge Gholson heard arguments in submitted cases.

COMMON PLEAS.

THE TRIAL OF WM. BECKLEY.—At the sitting of this Court, Judge Carter presiding, the case of the State against Wm. Beckley, for the murder of Bagio Fugazzi, proceeded. The father and uncle of the prisoner sat beside him during the day, and some of his friends and relatives were present during the afternoon. Nothing of importance, beyond the facts hitherto published, were developed in the progress of the testimony. The case had not yet closed.

PROBATE COURT.

Several cases of insanity were investigated before the Court. A young woman, nineteen years of age, a native of Pittsburgh, named Margaret Faulich, imbecile from childhood, was brought to that condition, according to the testimony, by repeated doses of opium, administered by a nurse, for the purpose of partly relieving her own labors, and while the child was left under her care.

Henry Waterman, a native of Germany, was subject to hallucinations on religious questions.

Mary Eberhardt, also a native of Germany, was alleged to be idiotic on love topics.

Patrick Nevin, an Irishman, insane before he left his native land, had a relapse and was at times violent.

All these were sent to the Lock-run Asylum.

NORRIS EMANCIPATED.—Thomas Lewis, a mulatto, was emancipated by the heirs of Lenox Surget, of Adams County, Miss.

Henry Johnson was emancipated by J. W.
R. Hoover, of Jessamine County, Kentucky.

POLICE COURT.—The session at the Police Court yesterday morning was quite long, lasting almost till twelve o'clock, and yet the amount of business transacted was not large.

Reynold Peters, because the chambermaid at his boarding-house did not arrange the clothes upon his couch properly, called her some very harsh names, which she resented. The case was too trifling to be taken notice of by the Court, and therefore discharged.

Warren H. King was imprudent enough to tell an officer that he had made a hundred dollars a day by passing counterfeit money, and this, together with the fact that he had passed a five dollar bill of this nature upon George A. Foster, justified Judge Pruden in committing him for his appearance at the Court of Common Pleas, to answer the charge there.

A man named John Moran, who had been discharged from the City Prison by some logerdemain unknown to the law, was sentenced to ten days in the County Jail for whipping his wife.

A fellow named Herman Holland, who, sometime during the winter, entered the stable of Mr. Rowekamp and drove off with a horse and sleigh, was before the Court charged with burglary, and was held to bail in the sum of $300 for his appearance before the Court of Common Pleas at its next term.

The case of Frederick Eckert, charged with striking a lad named Charles Ellis with a bowler, was continued until to-day.

William Nealey was quite disorderly night before last, and for this was fined $5 and costs, and sent to the City Prison for six days.

Bridget Dill stole half a box of tobacco from some person over the Rhine, and was sentenced to the County Jail for three months.

EXTRAORDINARY HEARTLESSNESS OF A WIFE.— MAY LAUGHS AT JANUARY.—A man who resides on Main street, near Sixth, and who has the misfortune—being fifty-two—to be the husband of a wife who is only twenty-three, a few days ago fell in a fit, at the corner of Broadway and Fifth, and became so helpless that it became necessary to take him home in an express wagon. The watchman who assisted him into the vehicle thought he had but a few moments to live, and, indeed, he himself said he did not expect to have his old eyes glad-dened again by the sight of her whose affection he considered all his own.

Having arrived, they rang the bell, and troubled to make known the circumstance to the wife, whom they supposed would be almost heart-broken at the sight of her dying husband. Human hopes, however, are but flowers, that bluish a brighter hue and grow more fragrant as they drink the dew of the Ideal, and fade and die beneath the sunbeams of the Real. So with these expectations; for, although the wife was in the house, she paid no attention whatever to those without, and they rang until, their patience being exhausted, they concluded to force open the door.

This having been accomplished, they found the wife—with the exception of a lover—the only inmate of the house, and instead of any evidence of grief or sorrow at the prostrate condition of her husband, they also found her on the contrary quite angry that in so rude and unbecoming a manner she had been disturbed, while in the enjoyment of stolen kisses, by the announcement that her husband was almost dead. She wished him so entirely; but did not care just then to be annoyed, even by the rehearsal of such pleasant news. Much to her chagrin, and very unfortunately for him, he will recover, to longer suffer on the rack of love unreturned, and have the nectar, which he sips from off her lips, turn to the bitterest gall upon his own.

ERICKSON'S NEW CALORIC ENGINE, by which this paper is printed, proves a perfect success.
It runs Hoe's lightning double cylinder press, throwing off three thousand impressions per hour, at an expense, for fuel, of one cent and a half only. Our press and engine room is open to the public at ten o'clock P. M. Ladies and gentlemen, welcome!

A PROPHECY.—We hereby put our conviction upon record—judging from the clouds which are now forming in the political horizon of the city—that if the next Mayor of Cincinnati be a Democrat, it will be Dr. Vattier.

Unfortunate Love Affair—A Young and Beautiful Girl Destroys Herself by Poison.

The duties of a journalist are often sad, and the one we have now to fulfill is not one of those the least somber. Self-destruction is always melancholy, for the amount of suffering which is necessary to induce any individual to tear aside, with violent hand, the veil which hangs between the mortal and immortal, must be great indeed; but when the victim is a young and lovely girl, who has all the freshness of youth and all the glow of womanhood, it is then painful in the extreme.

Yesterday, Miss America Rice left her residence, No. 81 Mount street, to go to the Postoffice with a letter addressed to a cousin in Nashville, and during her absence, a note from a young man, an attache of a morning cotem-porary—whose name we, from motives of delicacy, suppress—was left at the house for her.

When she returned, she read it, and immediately determined to visit a friend, saying to her mother, "I believe I will go to see Jennie, for I do not, I shall cry, and I don't want to do that."

She then started for the house of her friend, but upon the way purchased a large quantity of strychnine, which she took as soon as she left the store.

When she entered the room of Miss Hynson, the lady she had intended to visit, she threw the empty paper into her lap, said she had taken poison, threw herself upon the bed, and told them to send for her mother. This they did, and at the same time for a doctor. The mother arrived in time to see her child expire; but the doctor came too late—she had gone to a physician who never loses a patient.

The cause of this unfortunate and most melancholy end, our readers will at once perceive, was the note she had received from her beloved.

It referred to their youth and their friendship then, to her womanhood, and the time when their mutual regard had changed to undying love, and closed with a sad, and alas! an eternal farewell; for it appears that while the soul which was the seat of her love remained in the body, through which only she could express it, it was impossible to live without at least the sight of the person upon whom its wealth had been lavished.

These facts, as we have related them, were elicited before the Coroner's jury, which rendered a verdict of self-destruction. Dr. Carey used all the means within his power to learn where the poison had been purchased, but without effect; for although the girl said it had been bought at the corner of Sixth and Mount streets, the proprietor swore such was not the case, and that they never sold acid poisons except where they were prescribed by physicians.

There is, therefore, now no means of determining which of the stories is the true one, although we confess we incline to that of the girl, told but a few minutes before her death.

The mother of the girl is a widow, and is almost distracted at the loss of her daughter; and the young man whose intimacy with the girl has brought upon her so sad a fate, and upon himself so great a woe, is, we have been informed, nearly crazed at the result of his attempt to put an end to an affection so deep and so strong.

Sometimes the slightest vapor shuts out from the sight the brightest sunshine, and so Des-pair's dark cloud will overcast the clearest sky of Hope, but yet beyond them all exists another and a fairer day. This lovely girl sleeps sweetly, while we write, upon the breast of Death—the living suffer on. She loved and died—"the rest is silence."

AMUSEMENTS.

PIKE'S OPERA HOUSE.—The rendition of Martha, by the Strakosch Opera Troupe, was complete, and the most brilliant audience, we are convinced, that ever graced any house in the city, listened to the delightful instrumentation of Flotow and his delicious vocal harmo-nies last night at this establishment. We have time at this late hour to say but a word in regard to the performance, and our space is also limited, yet we can not avoid congratulating the management upon their success, which was in every respect all that could be desired.

Madame Colson, as the "Lady Henriette," was dignified and dece, and as "Martha," coquettish and charming. Her voice, her eyes and her mouth, vie with each other in sweetness, and while listening to the first, gazing at the second, you are seized with a desire to kiss the third—one is round and clear and full, another is pensive and prayerful, the latter rosaceous and expressive. As an actress she is clever and careful, and will become quite a favorite.

Madame Strakosch is too well known to require a single sentence at our hands. She sang the part of "Nani" with effect and grace.

Brignoli has a full and sympathetic tenor voice, and sang and played the part of the love-wildered "Lionel" very well, indeed a great deal better than he looked it. Junco, the large-chested basso, was also all that could be wished for in the character of "Plunket." The choruses were effective and harmonious, especially the quintettes and choros at the end of the fourth act, which was superb.

To-night, Donizetti's great tragic opera of Favorita, with Parodi as "Leonora," and Brig-noli as "Fernando," will be given, and with such a cast will certainly again fill the house to its utmost capacity.

WOOD'S THEATER.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter appeared last evening at this place of amusement in their favorite characters of "Ferdinand" and "Marina" in the latter of which Mrs. W. is positively great, it being the most thrilling personated "part" that we ever witnessed. We are glad to see that the management have provided themselves, in the person of Mr. Sydney Smith, with a gentleman capable of ably representing low comedy characters. Performers of this kind are so essential to a correct representation of the drama that we are surprised that the companies of both of our theaters should have, for so long a time, been without so necessary an adjunct.

NATIONAL THEATER.—The Handbook was quite well performed at this house last night. By a glance at the programme for this evening, it will be seen that the interesting play of The Stranger will be presented, with every character well sustained. Indeed, we doubt if this piece has ever been produced in this city, with the minor parts so well filled, as they will be at the National to-night.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The County Commissioners issued orders, at their office, yesterday, for an aggregate amount of $13,071 44, of which $12,900 00 were directed to be paid to Wesley M. Cameron, as per estimate No. 15, for the erection of a Lunatic Asylum, and $20 18 to the Trustees of Spencer Township, for amount paid Directors of the Commercial Hospital for medical attendance on itinerant paupers.

JOHN SHARP, a German, who was accused of having struck a woman while engaged in a row near Beckenstein's Garden, on Brighton Road, and also with disorderly conduct, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 upon one charge, and of $3 upon the other.

RAILROADS (OHIO) BILL.—The first five sections of the new bill relates entirely to matters of fencing, cattle-guards, and the prohibition of driving animals upon the track. The sixth section provides that "every railroad company, or other party having the control and management of a railroad, shall charge for the transportation of freight and passengers pro rata in proportion to the number of miles traveled, in all cases where such distance equals or exceeds thirty miles, and in no case shall any company, or other party as aforesaid, charge a greater sum for the transportation of freight and passengers a less distance than is charged for a greater distance," and makes the penalty for infraction, not less than $50, nor more than $1,000, recoverable in civil action.

OHIO LEGISLATURE, March 14.—The House to-day was engaged in discussing the Senate joint resolution of adjournment, which was finally amended to take place on the 28th inst., to which the Senate disagreed. The bill to provide more effectually for the safe keeping of the securities deposited by banks for the redemption of their notes, passed the Senate today.

Dr. Abbott owns a valuable collection of Egyptian antiquities, among which are preserved bulls, mummies and the like. They have been on exhibition in Broadway for several years, but have not many charms for the people. The British Government have offered sixty thousand dollars for them.

The Legislature of Illinois has enacted a law that no person shall serve more than once a year upon a jury. This cuts up the business of the "professional juror" by the roots. A similar law ought to be passed by the Legislature of this State.

There was a Court ball at Berlin on the 10th of February the gaiety of which was interrupted by the sudden death of Madame de Kuster, from apoplexy; but the interruption was quite temporary, for as soon as the body was removed, the ball went on!

THE DUBLIN OBSERVATORY, ALBANY, N. Y.
Mrs. Dudley denies having said anything that could justify the report going round the press that she had given her consent to the appointment of Professor Mitchell.

At a shooting excursion in Sans Souci, near Berlin, recently, the gun of an artillery officer went off accidentally, and the charge passed quite close to the person of the Regent.

The officer who refused to salute the host at Malta has been compelled to salute his commission. The host will still be saluted by British soldiers.

Sir Moses Montefiore, the London Jewish millionaire, has gone to Rome to intercede with the Pope for the liberation of the boy Mortara.

From different parts of England and Ireland reports have come announcing the death of numerous women and girls, from their clothes taking fire.

No more troops are to be sent from Britain to the East—the insurance being now considered qualified.

Twenty thousand tons of salmon passed over the railways from the fishings in the north of Scotland to the London markets last season.

Vaccination has at length been introduced into Persia.

Sunday work has been discontinued at the Paisley (Scotland) Gas-works.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

HEMATOGENIC SYRUP.

Chemical Analysis of the Blood of Consumptives Shows a deficiency of the Red Globules.

Mr. GUYTON, in his lecture, Monday evening, at the University of Cincinnati, stated that this deficiency existed, Consumption would be the result.
The rational method of treatment, therefore, is to form the organism with an artificial supply of these elements.

Dr. GUYTON'S HEMATOGENIC SYRUP has been compounded with the sole purpose of supplying these lacking ingredients.

In order to give some idea of the efficacy of this remedy in attaining the desired result, we append the following letter from Mrs. Mann, wife of the Hon.
Hon. James Mann, President of Antioch College.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., December 29, 1858.

My dear Sir:—I am very glad to hear of the success of your medicine, which certainly did the thing for my little boy of twelve, which I had almost despaired of ever seeing done. George has been subject for several years to attacks of the throat and breast, which have given me much uneasiness; for our baby, having found them very difficult to cure. He had been suffering for more than two months from incessant coughing, sneezing, tickling in the throat and weak eyes, till at last he lost flesh, appetite and strength to an alarming degree. I had almost despaired of his physiologist, had failed of effect when I began with your medicine. In one week the cough ceased—at least for a fortnight he began to recover color, appetite and vigor, and I think he has retained exposure as he could not do before. Only once has he been ill since we began using it, and that was on the occasion of taking cold, when he immediately came for "Mr.
Mann's" and in a few days he was in the course of twenty-four hours was quite well again.

Yours, with respect,
M. MANN.
